CHICAGO CITATION GUIDE Author-Date System

This guide is based on The Chicago Manual of Style, 15th ed., and refers to the author-date system only, used mainly for the physical, natural, and social sciences.

For each of the following examples there are two parts. The first one explains the format of citation that should be used in the text (Text), whereas the second part corresponds to the full bibliographic entry (References). The bibliography is usually titled "References" or "Works Cited"

The text citations are usually in parenthesis, and include the author's last name, the publication date, and a page number if needed.

ON-LINE SOURCES

The Chicago manual of Style does not advise including the date you accessed the Web source, but a date can be provided in brackets after the URL if the material is time-sensitive (i.e. daily news). An owner of the page should always be included and, if there is no author, the owner may stand in for the author.
